Carl Perkins, on a charge of possession of intoxicating liquor, entered a plea of not guilty and bail was fixed at $500. The cause was continued.

A number of gaming cases were up in court also. They were those of B. F. Hankins, Otis Seal, James Markwell, A. Beck, C. L. Hawkins, Frank Scull, Roy Gunn, who were fined $25 each and who paid their fines and costs.

Others who pleaded guilty to gaming and were fined $25 but granted a stay of execution for sixty days were: Glenn Moon, Pearl Webb, Ed Cain, and C. L. Kegin.

The prosecuting attorney dismissed the case against Jesse Nelson on a charge of gaming.

Grover Hatcher, on a charge of assault with intent to kill, pleaded not guilty and bail was fixed at $2,000. The case was continued.

A motion for a new trial was overruled in the case of M. C. Gray vs. A. Walters.

In the matter of the trust estate of Peter Behm, W. C. Pierce, trustee, having petitioned to terminate and cancel trust, by consent of the parties submitted to court, a decree was granted as per form filed.

A hearing of the petition of the defendant for modification of a divorce decree of Carrie M. Caldwell against E. F. Caldwell was scheduled for hearing at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Maryville Artillery Unit is Out for Cup Again, Says Sam England, Second Lieutenant

Battery C, 128th Field Artillery, of Maryville, arrived at Fort Riley, Kan., early Sunday morning for the annual two-weeks' summer camp under federal supervision.

Second Lieut. Sam England, in a letter to his father, Harve England, which was written Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, stated breakfast had not been served at that time. He writes:

"Everything has so far gone off in fine shape and the camp is going to be a lot better this year, for we have a new mess hall to eat in—looks like the St. Francis hotel in St. Joseph. Everyone is in a good humor but hungry as the devil, and are out for the cup again."

PINCHOT MAY BACK WILSON

PENNSYLVANIA GOVERNOR AT OUTS WITH ORGANIZATION.

INSURGENTS WILL AID

Openly Urging Following In Quaker State To Bolt Republican Ticket and Vote for Democrat.

Washington, July 19. — Governor Gifford Pinchot, who spent $185,000 in his unsuccessful attempt to win the Republican Senatorial nomination in Pennsylvania from the Mellon-Vare forces, who together spent more than two million dollars, is not going to make up with the organization.

Definite word to this effect reached the capital today and occasioned not a little excitement in political quarters because of the reports that the governor may swing his support to William B. Wilson, the Democratic Senatorial candidate, who will oppose Representative William S. Vare in November.

Progressive Republicans like Norris of Nebraska, La Follette of Wisconsin, and others, are openly urging their following in Pennsylvania to bolt the Republican organization and unite behind Wilson.

Upon this feature, Governor Pinchot has not committed himself, so far as is known, but he is determined that the fight shall go on.

A divorce was granted by Judge Guy Park in circuit court this morning to W. Dale Howland from Neva R. Howland. By agreement of the parties, the decree was for the plaintiff. The defendant was restored her maiden name of Neva R. Owens.

The petition, which was filed today, states the couple were married at Savannah on May 28, 1922, and lived together until May 29, 1926. The petition alleged that the defendant was "quarrelsome, nagging and fault finding."

JUSTICE W. L. JOHNSON DIES

STOMACH AILMENT FATAL TO WIDELY KNOWN "SQUIRE."

FUNERAL HELD TODAY

In Same Office For Thirty-One Years Continuously, He Won Fame For Number Of Marriages.

Judge W. L. Johnson, justice of the peace in Maryville continuously since April, 1895, died at 7:45 o'clock Saturday night at his home on East Fifth street. He was 82 years old.

A stomach ailment, with complications, was the cause of death. Despite his suffering, Judge Johnson did not remain away from his office until a week ago.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the First Christian Church, conducted by the Rev. R. E. Musgrave, pastor of the church, and burial was made in Oak Hill cemetery. Pallbearers were J. F. Roelofson, W. O. Garrett, J. B. Robinson, John M. Dawson, G. B. Roseberry and D. R. Eversole.

The "Marryin' Squire."

To hundreds of eloping couples over Northwest Missouri and neighboring counties in Iowa and Nebraska, Judge Johnson was known as the "marryin' squire." A few weeks ago his books held the names of 710 couples for whom he performed the marriage ceremony.

On April 15, Judge and Mrs. Johnson celebrated their own sixtieth wedding anniversary. Mrs. Johnson and four children survive.

Judge Johnson, as Warren Lafayette Johnson, a youth of 21, came to Maryville in 1865, arriving on April 17. He had just been discharged from the Union Army after service through the Civil War with Company C, Thirty-Third Ohio Infantry, in which he had enlisted at Chillicothe, Ohio. He was born at Londonderry, Ross County, O., on March 6, 1844, an only child. His mother died before he was 2 years old and he was reared by his grandparents, in Londonderry and later on a farm near Chillicothe.

In the Civil War, young Johnson served in campaigns in Kentucky, Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia under Generals D. C. Buell and W. S. Rosecrans. He was captured on the night of the last day of the Battle of Chickamaugua and was confined on Belle Island and in other Confederate prisons for seventeen months and six days.

Henld Many Offices.

After working for a short time on the farm of William H. Davis near Burlington Junction, then the "Ohio settlement," the young Ohioan became deputy circuit clerk and recorder under John C. Terhune. In 1866 he was elected county treasurer for a term of two years. He had been reading law and was admitted to the bar in 1867. Shortly afterward he was appointed county attorney, with jurisdiction in justice of the peace cases.

It was in the late '70s that Mr. Johnson first became justice of the peace. He retained the office at that time for four years and four months. He then became deputy circuit clerk for three years and three months and then deputy county clerk for eight years. In 1891 he resumed the practice of law and in 1895 was elected justice of the peace, continuing in the office ever since.

Besides officiating in a larger number of marriages than any other official or minister in this section of the state, Judge Johnson, in recent years had presided in practically all preliminary hearings in criminal cases and had adjudicated thousands of minor civil cases.

His devotion to his office was such that he came even when in severe pain. Often he was to be found lying on a hard wooden bench for a few moments, resting for a fresh attack upon his work.

The four surviving children are Edward C. Johnson, Burlington Junction; Mrs. Gertrude Duvall and James F. Johnson, Pueblo, Colo.; and John C. Johnson, St. Joseph. There are several grandchildren.

Guests at Robinson Home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Robinson, sr., had as their guests yesterday Mr. and Mrs. George Heaton and the latter's father, Dr. C. M. Chilton of St. Joseph, who motored up for the day.

"Zero to 10 Below Tonight," Official Report Declares

"Cold wave tonight; zero to ten below in northern portion."

This weather report, posted in the Maryville postoffice, is causing considerable comment today. The "old timers" are wondering what's coming next in this chaotic world.

However, the weather report is said to have reduced the temperature at the postoffice several degrees.

Will wonders never cease?

Fixtures of Bank Are Ordered Sold

Court Also Instructs Deputy Commissioner E. C. Curfman to Pay Interest on a Loan.

E. C. Curfman, special deputy commissioner of finance in charge of the liquidation of the Real Estate Bank of this city, was granted authority to sell the furniture and fixtures of the bank by Judge Guy Park in circuit court this morning. The furniture and fixtures are of no further use to the institution and they were ordered sold at public or private sale. The sale will be submitted to the court for its approval.

The petition of the commissioner to pay the interest on a real estate loan was ordered by the court. The petition states that the bank is the owner of four-fifths of a tract of land, lying west of Platte river, in township 63, range 34, and the land is encumbered by a deed of trust securing a debt of $10,800. The debt is a lien on the whole of the property and the bank is liable for four-fifths of the interest now due. The party owning the other undivided one-fifth is ready and willing to pay his proportionate part of the interest and the petitioner declared he believed it to the best interest of the bank and to the creditors thereof that the interest on the bank's part of the debt be paid.

R. N. Barber Property Is Sold for $1,631.50

R. N. BARBER PROPERTY

Cattle Bring Good Prices at Sheriff's Sale Under Court Order in Callaway Suit.

A total of $1,631.50 was paid Saturday for property of R. N. Barber, former cashier of the Northwestern Bank of Burlington Junction, now in the penitentiary, when it was sold by Sheriff Lowell B. Campbell under a court order in the suit brought against Barber by John Callaway.

The money will be held by the sheriff until the October term of court, pending trial of Callaway's suit, in which he charges he paid Barber $1,500 for a note supposed to have been given by F. C. Manes but which he afterward found to be a forgery.

The property sold included a number of cattle and a Buick automobile, model 26-45. The car was bought by Charles Finnell for $460, and the cattle sold as follows:

Cow and calf, R. H. Rees, $68.50; cow and calf, W. P. Huston, $60; two cows and calves, R. H. Rees, $148; bull, S. A. Jones, $80; heifers, C. E. Cossin, $57; Miles Graves, $50; J. A. Los Angeles, July 19.—District Attorney Asa Keyes announced today that Kenneth C. Ormiston, missing grand jury witness in the Aimee Sempel McPherson, kidnapping mystery had been located in New York and that he would not be called to Los Angeles for further question.

The district attorney said he received an air mail letter from the former radio operator of Angelus temple and he was convinced Ormiston had no further information to contribute to the case.

DRY PARTY IS BORAH THREAT

DEMANDS DEFINITE STAND ON PROHIBITION ISSUE.

LEADERS ARE AROUSED

Only Way Prohibition Can Be Modified Is By Nullification Of Constitution, Senator Says.

Washington, July 19.—Senator William E. Borah's prohibition speech yesterday at Augusta, Ga., in which he assailed bolshevism, fascism and American nullificationists as "whelps born in the same kennel," aroused considerable comment at the capital today.

While the Idaho Senator's prohibition views are well known and his attack on the wets was anticipated, he went further than he has ever gone before in challenging both the Republican and Democratic parties to take a definite stand on the wet and dry question in 1928.

"If neither of the political parties will take a definite stand," he said, "then let the people organize another party which will be loyal to the Constitution of this United States."

This was the part of Borah's speech that attracted the attention of political leaders here. By some it was interpreted as a direct threat that if both the Republican and Democratic parties in 1928 sidestep the prohibition issue as they did in 1924, Borah will be one of the leading spirits in a new and militant dry party.

Borah declared there is only one way that prohibition can be modified—by direct repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Any legalizing of light wines and beer, he held, merely nullified the Constitution and reduced the United States to the level of non-constitutional European governments.

Farm Relief Leaders to Discuss Legislation

Meet In Des Moines To Decide On Further Action Following Defeat of Measures In Congress.

Des Moines, July 19.—Farm organization leaders from twenty-four states met here today as members of the corn belt committee of twenty-eight to discuss the next steps to be taken in the campaign for farm relief at the hands of Congress and perhaps assail the administration for its attitude toward agriculture.

The committee, organized several months prior to the time the corn area conference of twenty-two came into existence at the Middle West agricultural conference here in January as a somewhat similar program to that of the latter group. However, the "dirt farmers'" slant on the situation is claimed by farm group leaders to be more emphasized by the committee of twenty-eight, which is headed by William Hirth of Columbia.

The committee of twenty-two will meet here tomorrow.

Thomas E. Hall, Long Resident, Dies Sunday

Funeral Services To Be Held At 2:30 o'Clock Wednesday At Christian Church.

Thomas E. Hall, a resident of Nodaway County since 1877, died at 7:20 o'clock last evening at his home, 628 West First street, of nephritis and heart disease. He had been failing in health for some time but had been bedfast only since last Friday evening.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Christian Church, conducted by the Rev. R. E. Musgrave. Burial will be in Miriam cemetery.

Mr. Hall was born in Henry County, Kentucky, near Louisville Aug. 18, 1848. He lived near Louisville until about nine years old when he came to Platte County, Missouri. Here he lived until 1877 when he located in Nodaway County. Until 1916 when the family moved to the present home in Maryville, the family lived on a farm, west of Maryville.

Mr. Hall was married in 1875 to Miss Lillie W. Twyman, who died Feb. 13, this year. Three children survive, as follows: Frank T. Hall and Miss Hattie M. Hall of Maryville, and Mrs. Charles Finnell of Burlington Junction. Mr. Hall also leaves one brother, William Hall of Camden Point, Mo., and a sister, Mrs. T. C. Monson of Savannah.

Sam Hayworth of Barnard was a Maryville visitor today.

AIR OFFICIAL IN COME BACK

TRUBEE DAVISON ONCE SEVERELY INJURED IN PLANE CRASH.

HEADS AVIATION NOW

Will Not Yet Talk About Reforms in Service Nor Comment on Appointments of Aides.

Washington, July 19.—After nine years Trubee Davison has come back.

When they picked him out of the wreckage of his plane with a dislocated spine one day in 1917, his friends said:

"If he gets out with his life, Davison is certainly through with aviation now."

But the blue-eyed, round faced young man has received a job from the United States. He is the new boss who is to reform the much criticized army air service. He is assistant secretary of war for aviation.

"I'm frightened," he admitted, explaining that on his first day, Saturday, in office as assistant, Secretary Davis had gone away and made him acting secretary of war.

"After I was sworn in, I rushed out to Bolling Field and flew—the first time in nine years. Of course, they sent up an expert pilot with me, but later he let me take the stick. Like old times, I skidded a bit around the curves, but I got my hand in again with a little practice."

Davison would not talk about the reforms he is expected to initiate in the service. "I must get my legs first—learn how the wheels go round here in the department," he said. "Later I shall fly to all the training fields and get acquainted with the men and the problems."

This millionaire son of the late Henry P. Davison, of Morgan and Company, was worried by the battery of cameras and questions as a first-day cabinet official. He showed skill as a departmental head by evading questions regarding appointment of two new air service brigadier generals, over which there is an alleged row in the department.

Issues Statement of Attack on Harry Hawes

Judge Ewing Cockrell Declares Wet Candidate Could Not Be Elected—Withdrawal Affidavits Mailed.

St. Louis, July 19.—Before leaving on a campaign tour of North Missouri, Judge Ewing Cockrell, candidate for the Democratic nomination, issued a statement here today attacking Harry B. Hawes, who also seeks the nomination.

Cockrell said he would incorporate the statement in his campaign speeches. He cited "facts" to show why Hawes, who favors modification of the Volstead law, could not be elected.

Affidavits of withdrawal of Cockrell from the short term race and of Willis H. Meredith from the long term contest today were mailed to the St. Louis and Kansas City boards of election commissioners and to each of the county clerks.

Record Crowd Attends Keller Bible Class

Three hundred and eighteen students attended the College Bible class at the First Christian Church yesterday. The class is taught by Dr. Fred Keller and yesterday's attendance was the largest for a number of years. Several special numbers were given by members of the class.

HERRIOT TRIES TO FORM GOVT.

POSSIBLE FAILURE IN NEW FINANCE NOMINEE

IS MUCH OPPOSITION

Agitation for National Union Government Renewed.—New Ministry Cannot Live for Long.

Paris, July 19.—Edward Herriot, radical socialist leader, has formed a cabinet.

"I have formed a cabinet and will present it to President Doumergue at 10:30 o'clock tonight," M. Herriot announced at 7 o'clock this evening after he had called at the presidential palace to inform the president of his progress in forming a ministry.

M. Demenzir, who was reported to have accepted the finance ministry, conferred with a number of prominent bankers this evening and as a result of these conferences it was said that he was inclined to reconsider and was not eager to accept the post.

The hesitancy of Demenzir is reported to be slowing up the formation of the cabinet.

Paris, July 19.—While Edouard Herriot was finding his difficulties in forming a cabinet mounting today, President Doumergue was consulting the deposed finance minister, M. Joseph Caillaux, relative to the decline of the franc.

After pluging during the morning to 48.31 to the dollar, by 1 o'clock this afternoon the franc had recovered to 46.25.

M. Herriot's troubles were increased when there was renewed agitation for a national union government which he cannot form and which, it seems probable, only M. Briand can form if he will.

The opposition to M. Herriot has increased to such a point that it is rumored that even some members of his own radical socialist party are prepared to desert him. Even though Herriot forms a ministry, its life cannot be long.

Paris, July 19.—After the franc plunged downward today, M. Herriot, who on Saturday, caused the downfall of the Briand government and M. Caillaux, continued his efforts to form a cabinet with no prospect of effecting a ministry which can weather the storm for long.

Herriot has received rebuffs from the conservatives and moderates elements and it now seems probable that he will attempt to form a cabinet of the left with perhaps a few moderates included.

Herriot learned yesterday that the task which he made for himself when he brought about the defeat of the Briand government is no easy one and it was reported last night that M. Herriot wanted to give up the task of forming a ministry.

Coolidge Family May Separate This Week

President Expected to Go to Plymouth, Vt., While Mrs. Coolidge Will Remain at White Pines.

White Pine Camp, N. Y., July 19.—The White House family will, in all probability, be split up this week for the first time since Mr. Coolidge became President. The executive is expected to journey to his birthplace at Plymouth, Vt., the early part of the week, possibly tomorrow and remain there a few days.

Mrs. Coolidge, however, it is understood, will stay at White Pine Camp to entertain her mother, Mrs. Elmira Goodhue of North Hampton, Mass., and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston.

The President is anxious to get back to Plymouth for a few days. It is there that during the last two years he has buried his father and his youngest son. He wants to assure himself that everything is in order and that his father's estate is being brought to a close.

Mrs. Henry Gallup of Shenandoah, Ia., is visiting for a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wallace, east of Maryville.

Weather

Fair tonight and tomorrow, continued warm.

FRENCH DEBT TERMS

Caillaux, French finance minister has succeeded in arranging a debt settlement with Great Britain more favorable than the one that Berenger arranged with the United States. There seems to be a prospect of ratification by the French Parliament.

There is little prospect of ratification agreement, already approved by our House of Representatives. French sentiment is strongly against it, ignoring what seems to Americans its liberality, and insisting that if France is to pay at all, she must have still more favorable terms. Caillaux's ministry, and even the present French government as a whole, may stand or fall accordingly as it succeeds in winning further concessions from America.

The British precendent will be a powerful argument for more concessions.

A member of the American debt funding commission is quoted as saying that the Commission is through with the matter, and any further action is up to Congress. There is seldom any absolute finality, however, in either finance or politics.

France is not entitled to anything better in this country but it is not inconceivable that France will be granted somewhat easier terms before the negotiations undertaken by Caillaux are concluded. If so, it will not be because American financiers and statements want to take less, but because they are convinced that less is better than nothing at all.

ANOTHER POLAR FLIGHT

Just to finish things up properly, plans are being made by Lieut. Byrd and his pilot, Floyd Bennett, to fly across the South Pole. This will be a shorter trip by 1,000 miles than their flight across the North Pole, because it is possible to establish a base for "hopping off" that much nearer the goal.

The public will hardly be so thrilled over this flight as it was over the North Pole venture. It expects Lieut. Byrd to succeed again as he has already succeeded. Also, in this season of almost daily miracles, the novelty soon wears off any specific feat. It pays—in fame and thrills—to be the first to accomplish such spectacular achievements.

The farmers may not know exactly what they want; but they sure want it.

All things may come to those who wait but they are likely to arrive too late to do any good.

The Swedish Crown Prince's American explorations are now complete. He has seen a home run.

The New York curfew will not be popular among out-of-town visitors. They can go to bed at home.

As we interpret the news from Geneva, Brazil is going to be spanked for making a face at the League of Nations.

Now that Charley Ross has been found, there may be some hope of the fellow who borrowed your ten dollars turning up some day.

Speaking of the decorous past as contrasted with the indecent present, a moral censor in New York wrote away back in 1873: "Why is it that every public play must have a naked woman? It is disgusting, and pernicious to the young."

A Kansas man has suggested building a roof over improved dirt roads as cheaper and more desirable than concrete. It might be cheaper, but who would want to travel all day under roof and how much dust would be have to eat in the course of a day? According to the old saying every man is entitled to eat a peck of dirt in the course of his life but most of them would likely measure it by bushels if all highways were under roof.

Some one claims to have traced the origin of bobbed hair back to the revolutionary war. That looks like getting back where no one lives to deny the responsibility. However, according to this authority, bobbed hair in those days was prescribed for the doughboys and not for the female of the species.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTER

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

Washington—Nobody who knows General Lincoln C. Andrews could take, without a good many grains of salt, the report that he intended to resign as dry czar of the United States before the end of the year that he gave himself to show "considerable progress toward prohibition enforcement."

The general is the type of individual who generally performs more than he promises, not less.

He did not, indeed, pledge himself to dry the country up. He was quite frank to admit, at least by implication, that he was uncertain whether it could be done or not. He did not even promise "considerable progress." But he did say he intended to try it for another year.

He has still about four months to go and recently denied he would quit.

If he could only be forced out!—as General Smedley D. Butler was in Philadelphia. But to quit, to admit defeat!—Andrews probably would prefer death itself.

To appreciate the situation at its full value it is necessary to consider the job in connection with the type of man the general is.

He was a dashing cavalry officer, socially popular. He liked lively company, comandery. He drank, in both pre-prohibition and post-prohibition days, until he accepted his present post. According to his own admission, some of his friends said he drank hard. Not that he was a souse, but he lived in worldly circles—was a "jolly good fellow" of the pre-prohibition brand.

Andrews was a soldier, however, and believed that orders ought to be enforced. Prohibition was an order. When it was definitely put up to him, he could see that it was. Would he undertake to enforce it? Yes, he would. It became a matter of honor with him at once.

Continue to drink? No, of course not. Andrews is not the man to be dry for others and wet for himself. Probably that mattered to him very little. He was no slave to alcohol. Besides, as he said, he was too busy to think about it.

What Other Editors Say

Man's Fading Prestige.

(William Allen White in Emporia Gazette.)

For five days we have been pondering upon the said fate of the Berlin man who came home and found his young wife in flesh colored stockings, a short skirt, an armless dress and bobbed hair. The reader will remember the story: It was in the Gazette. It told of the man's surprise, chagrin and sorrow; and the story went on to say that after he had consoled himself with a few assuaging drinks—and who would begrudge him that poor boon to his sufferings?—he went out into the the street in the moonlight by way of revenge upon society in general and the so-called softer sex in particular, clad, as he rushed from his home, only in his shirt and bedroom slippers. Then a cruel and unjust government arrested and jailed him. To that sad pass has man's degradation come.

He had on as much raiment, ounce for ounce, as his wife had. She was not molested. His clothes for all domestic and hygienic purposes were probably even better distributed than hers. As a scenic spectacle he was no more shocking than she. Yet he sits all alone in jail all day long with "nothing a-tall to do but to be thinking of you!"

While she, merely because she is a female, goes forth wearing a dab of cotton, a spool of silk and gets away with a lot of indecent exposure under the protection of fashion.

Man is lost.

He can never come back.

He began by giving woman his seat in the street car. Then he gave her the ballot. Whereupon she took away his booze and now she takes off her clothes and runs wild.

And if man tries to regain his ancient rights to frisk in his many beauty in the moonlight for the delight of the populace—what does he get?

Will he get six months in jail and the opprobium of public opinion molded by the soft but subtle hands of woman?

Man on this planet is a busted community! He might as well quit.

To Fight Fire on the Farm.

Methods by which the annual fire toll of 150 million dollars taken on American farms may be reduced will be worked out by the agricultural committee of the National Fire Waste Council in collaboration with the insurance department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which held its initial meeting at Chicago on July 14.

Insurance company officials, members of the staff of the national chamber, agricultural publishers, farm bureau representatives, agricultural engineers, representatives of the department of agriculture and others constitute the committee.

A study of the possible safeguards against fire on farms will first be made. It has been found, for example, that the maligned lightning rod, when properly installed, reduces the hazard from lightning to a minimum. One insurance company reports only a single loss in forty years under such conditions, although lightning is the cause of many farm fires.

Methods of stacking hay and grains to prevent spontaneous combustion, construction of farm buildings and houses to retard fire, ways and means of fighting fires on the farm and similar subjects will be considered by the committee. Fire losses on farms, it is believed, can be greatly reduced if relatively simple precautions are taken.—Today's Business.

Actor, Typically English, Gives Theories on the Stage and Movies

That the stage is on the decline in popularity because it has become too realistic is the opinion of V. L. Granville, English actor who will give a program of dramatic interludes at the State Teachers College tonight. Mr. Granville spoke at length on the matter in an interview this morning and expressed his disappointment in the fact that too much of the spoken drama of this period is realistic to too marked a degree.

The actor classed moving pictures as "pretty women, good looking men, admirable photography, and nothing more." He deplored the fact that the American public no longer demands the higher type of moving pictures.

Mr. Granville comes to Maryville as a part of an American tour he is making under the management of Clifford Devereux. He has given his dramatic interludes in practically all of the countries in the eastern hemisphere.

The program tonight will be an outline, he pointed out. "This is the age of outlines," he said. "My entertainment is to drama what H. G. Wells' book is to history. I attempt to take my audience through the different ages of drama in two hours."

The program tonight will be divided into two parts, with an intermission of 10 minutes. At the beginning of the entertainment, Mr. Granville will give a short lecture. He will then portray six characters in drama from the Greeks to Shakespeare. At the beginning of the second part of the program, Mr. Granville will explain the characters he will portray. He will then give nine more characterizations.

The equipment for the dramatic interlude is valued by Mr. Granville at $3,000. This includes costumes and wigs. The wigs alone represent an expenditure of $500.

Mr. Granville was born and reared in England and is a graduate of the University of London, from which he holds the B. A. degree. This university gives the B. A. degree only after a student has passed two comprehensive examinations. After passing the first, he is given the Inter-B. A. degree and does not receive the full degree until after he has passed the second examination.

Mr. Granville is a typical Englishman in manners and accent. His speech reflects a broad education and his vocabulary is large. He has been on the stage for twenty years.

HIEROGLPHICS NEAR FAIRFAX

FRANK L. PLUMB FINDS STONE WITH ANCIENT WRITING.

SENT TO WASHINGTON

Translation Is Sought to Throw Light On Skeletons, Mastodon Teeth And Other Discoveries in Creek.

From the St. Joseph News-Press.

Fairfax, Mo.—A stone with hieroglyphic writing recently discovered by Frank L. Plumb of this town is the latest find in Gubser Creek, five miles west of here, where many specimens of relics of an earlier age have been found during the last few years.

The recent discovery is believed to be the first of its kind in this part of the country, and so far, the message of hieroglyphic design has not been translated. A copy of the stone has been forwarded to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, D. C., and it is possible that when its meaning has been determined, it may throw light on other discoveries here.

Discovered Skeleton Last Year.

Mr. Plumb discovered a skeleton in the creek last September, an account of which was published in The News-Press on Oct. 31, last. At the time many inquiries were received by Mr. Plumb, and several archeologists visited Fairfax, but none was able to fully classify the discovery made by Mr. Plumb.

Up to the present time more than a thousand specimens of all character and designs have been found in the creek and after each rain, men, women and children can be seen walking up the creek bottom looking for objects that have been washed out of the ground by the water.

The creek runs through a farm owned by Mrs. George Gubser, a widow, and many persons call the stream Gubser Creek, although it has no official name and is not shown on maps. The creek is nearly two miles long and empties into Mill Creek, which at that point is about three miles distant from the Missouri River.

Gubser Creek has only recently matured and is less than twenty years old. At one time a county road ran directly across its path and there were houses located near its present banks. With every rain the creek became deeper and wider until in some places it is now 100 feet below the level surface of the ground.

Creek Between Steep Banks.

Entry to the creek bottom is down the steep slopes which are overgrown with weeds and poison ivy. In many places the footing is difficult and a false step would cause one to fall many feet down the banks. The bottom of the creek is about ten feet wide and it is at this level that the specimens are found. Whenever a hard rain has fallen the water washes the dirt from the articles, and one can see them sticking out of the sand and mud.

On a trip, taken several days ago, Mr. Plumb discovered a stone ax, several pieces of pottery, and a piece of a mastodon tooth, and his son found a perfect flint arrowhead. This did not include several pieces of petrified wood and stones which are very abundant and which may be found at many places.

Mr. Plumb has discovered two skeletons in the creek, and has found four axes, two carved images, one hieroglyphic stone, and several arrowheads, skinning knives, stone tools, corn grinders and mastodon teeth.

Mrs. George Gubser, while gathering firewood in the creek, discovered an ivory tusk three feet long and weighing more than seventy-five pounds.

Tooth Eight Inches Wide.

Benjamin Gubser found two mastodon teeth, one of which is eight inches wide, and several arrowheads and axes.

Lawrence Kennedy has four axes, two unbroken vases and several arrowheads which he found; Guy Grebe, three axes, a mastodon tooth and an unbroken vase; Robert Russell, two axes, several arrowheads and a long flint knife, and Frank Poe, an ax and several arrowheads.

N. F. Dragoo has a large collection of specimens, including two skulls and a very fine vase.

Fred McDaniel, Fred McCoy, Woodie Stamper and L. E. Baker also have found axes and arrowheads.

Mr. Plumb is a student of anthropology and has discovered a sacrificial mound, a serpent mound and an ancient fort in the vicinity of Fairfax. After the tour through the creek, Mr. Plumb led the way to the sacrificial mound and after making a small excavation, found several pieces of pottery, a carved piece of bone, a stone ax, arrowheads and a layer of ashes. In this excavation a hole three feet square was dug into the mound which is about thirty feet in diameter. Mr. Plumb expects to make a complete excavation of the mound later.

The serpent mound is more than 1,000 yards in length and is located on top of a bluff. Several years ago part of the mound was uncovered when some of the ground was plowed for cultivation, and many skeletons were unearthed by the plow.

The picture shows how Donald R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton (O.) Daily News, was slain early Friday morning in front of the garage at his home. Mellett had just closed one of the doors of his garage when a fusilade of shots rang out. He fell with two bullets in his head. Evidence indicates Mellett was caught in a cross fire of his assassins' guns. It is believed the murder was the work of professional gunmen. Twelve shots were fired at him.

Explosion Sends Husband of Former Maryville Girl to Hospital With Fractured Skull.

Dr. C. R. Haudenschield, better known in Maryville as the husband of Miss Edith Embree, was seriously injured and escaped death only by a small margin in a boiler accident which occurred several days ago on the premises of the Cascade Water Company of Los Angeles, of which he is president.

Dr. Haudenschield had arrived at the plant at about 5:50 a. m., from his home with the intention of doing certain small chores in order to give the employes an early start after the Fourth of July holiday, among them being the heating of water for washing bottles.

Being unfamiliar with the details of the water plant, Dr. Haudenschield turned on the gas before lighting the pilot of the steam boiler, with the result that an explosion took place in which several bricks were torn loose from the front of the furnace, one of the drivers arrived about that time and the police ambulance was called to take Dr. Haudenschield to the Receiving hospital. Very little hope for his recovery was held there but he was later taken to the Hollywood hospital under the care of his personal physician, who stated that the injury was not necessarily fatal.

Dr. Haudenschield is 58 years of age. He is widely known as an evangelist.

Misses Gladys and Ruth Bookman and their guest, Miss Marjorie Frame of Sterling, Colo., and Miss Laveta Epperson motored to St. Joseph this morning to spend the day.

Stand By Your Senator

SENATOR GEORGE H. WILLIAMS has made a commendable record in the United States Senate and is now recognized as one of the outstanding men in that body.

He was one of the leaders against the League of Nations Court. In that fight he demonstrated his ability, his fighting qualities and his true Americanism. He will not stand for any measure which involves the United States in the political intrigues of foreign powers.

Within a few months after taking his seat in the United States Senate, Senator Williams was chosen legislative assistant to Senator Curtis, the majority floor leader—an unusual recognition for a new Senator.

A Record of Constructive Statesmanship

Senator Williams worked and voted for tax reduction, funding of the foreign debts, improvement of our waterways and for farm relief. He is a strong advocate of the Protective tariff as against the ruinous free-trade policy. HE IS PLEDGED TO THE UPHOLDING OF THE CONSTITUTION AND STRICT ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAW.

Senator Williams is making the race for the Senate as a Republican, on a Republican platform. He is the strongest candidate to head the Republican ticket for the November election.

He has made good. His party needs him at Washington. Missouri needs him there. He will make a name for himself and reflect credit upon his native state.

The BOBCAT

BY HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS

Big Tim Burke, real estate operator, and known to his associates as a land pirate, discharges one of his young lieutenants called Pol Gaillard, because he is irritated by the latter's sleekness and nonchalant manner. Pol learns that his ex-boss covets a desirable piece of Long Island property owned by Professor Husted and that another land shark, Michael Cadrigan, is after the same bit of land. Cadrigan lives on the shore of Long Island sound with his step daughter, Veronica. His estate is across the bay from that of Professor Husted. The old professor lives like a hermit and Veronica is his only visitor. Cadrigan asks Veronica to discontinue calling on the old man, intimating that the professor's enemies may harm her. Noticing a sloop anchored opposite the house, Veronica suggests to her stepfather that they call on the owner. They are invited on board and their host introduces himself as Pol Gaillard, posing as an itinerant poet and artist.

Pol is invited to dine with the Cadrigans and through Veronica meets Professor Husted. While calling on the professor Pol's boat is cut adrift. He recovers it, but the next night an attempt is made to sink it. Professor Husted invites Pol to stay at his house. Pol accepts, but later goes back to his boat, as he feels his interest in the professor's affairs has disturbed the old man. Pol pays his dinner call on the Cadrigans. Veronica is out and Cadrigan receives him. During the conversation Pol uncovers his animosity toward Cadrigan and they quarrel.

INSTALLMENT XXXVI.

Veronica Grows Confidential.

Veronica's tone was taunting, but Pol was undisturbed by it.

"You are right," he said, but doesn't it strike you that I might have wanted to show your groom off?"

"Tonight," said Veronica, "I suppose you want to show Mr. Cadrigan off. I haven't the least idea that he's coming here at all. He telephoned me from New York."

"Will you bet on it, Nica?"

"I wish you wouldn't call me that. Yes, I'll bet, and if you lose you are to go away and stop meddling in our affairs."

"Agreed—and if he comes, you are to go into that next room and listen to what he says and not come out or in any way betray your presence until he has gone. No matter what happens."

"I am not an eavesdropper, Mr. Gaillard."

"Wouldn't you be willing to stretch a point for the sake of your old friend, the professor?"

Veronica hesitated. "Perhaps, if I could be sure that it would do him any good."

"It would do him good to have an end put to all this petty persecution, especially as it now threatens to be more than petty. Besides, here is your chance for getting rid of me. You say you don't believe that Cadrigan will come."

Veronica reflected for a moment, then said slowly, "All right. I agree."

The night wore on. To be more exact, it roared on; the blustering wind assailing the big trees in successive squalls, out of a sky that was not hard and clear and glittering with the radiance of a burnished silver moon.

Veronica went up to see how the professor fared. Pol rose and assured himself that the doors and windows were securely locked and bolted, and the curtains drawn in a manner to permit of no scrutiny from without.

The living room consumed the southward end of the house. It was entered by one door from the front entrance hall and another from the kitchen in the rear, on the other side of which was the dining room.

Pol sat down at the end of the table. He stared at the blank space over the mantel where the faint imprints of the crossed swords that had formerly been attached there. Lying on the table was the professor's shabby, old portfolio. Pol drew it to him and opened it to find a sheaf or foolscap paper written in a fine, old fashioned, scholarly hand, under the heading, "The Avenger of the Blood." From the faded look of ink and paper this was evidently something that had been written years before, taken recently in hand, perhaps to modify or supplement. Unlike the other verses, which were of a sonorous phraseology in didatic hexameter, it had no biblical correlation, no parallelism of Holy Writ. Pol read as follows:

Last night I heard God's voice in outrage moan
Like that of some kind parent, sorely tried
Yet loth to punish. Thus I would atone
My fatal vengeance, blood lust, rage and pride.

2.

What right had I to vengeance, who, a fool,
Said in my heart: "All is a foolish mill:
No God directs it, nor the guiding too;
No man hath right to remedy its ill."

3.

Yet did I slay, against all power of right,
And, slaying, saw an Eye and heard a Voice:
"Base, puny earthling, hast raised hand to smite
One of My creatures, living of My Choice?"

Pol glanced up at the space over the mantel—then picked up another sheaf of verses, also yellow with age. These treated in more ambitious poetry with the story of Naboth's vineyard and gave the impression of being less self-accusatory than an apologia.

Pol's reading was interrupted by the entrance of Veronica. As she came into the room an old clock struck, with jangled but sweetly melancholy cadence, the hour of eleven.

"How is the professor?" Pol asked in a low voice.

"He has not stirred. He must be very deeply under the influence of the sleeping powder because I eased his position without arousing him in the least. He told the doctor he had not slept a wink in forty-eight hours——" Veronica looked at Pol with a frown—"since you began your meddling in his affairs."

"I wish you would lie down on the couch and get a nap yourself," said Pol. "I doubt if you have slept much since I began meddling in your affairs."

"That is true, but I can catch up when you have ceased to meddle with them."

She picked up a Bible lying on the table and began to read. Pol leaned back and appeared to drowse.

Presently Veronica looked up and said, "I suppose you wonder why I keep coming here against Mr. Cadrigan's wishes."

"That is easily understood. The professor loves you dearly and you return the sentiment. He was, I believe, an old friend of your mother's."

"He was more than that. His love for her was of the kind that seldom occurs. A sort of worship. When finally she made him understand she could never marry him, he gave up his chair of biology and went to Germany to study."

"Why could she never marry him?"

"Because he was an atheist. He could not lie to her. He came home not only an infidel at heart but by logic acquired over there. He was the most confirmed sort of atheist. The gentle, kindly sort who would not have harmed a fly."

"Was he friendly with your father, the count?"

"I was too young to know how he felt about my father. He has never mentioned him to me, but since he believed mother to be a saint, if an atheist can believe in saints, the chances are he despised my father. That would have been wrong, because papa was a lovable man. I adored him."

As if regretting this bit of confidence, Veronica picked up the Bible again. Pol remained in his state of profound reflection. A quarter of an hour passed. Veronica shut the book upon her knee, leaned back, and closed her eyes. Something rubbed lightly against Pol's leg with a caressing, plaintive little note. He reached down and stroked the fine, impalpable fur of Nightingale. The cat lept lightly into his lap.

There came at that moment a dull rapping on the kitchen door. Veronica, galvanized into startled wakefulness, lurched forward clasping her hands. Pol looked at her, laid his finger on his lips and pointed to the door that opened into the front entrance hall. The girl rose silently, crossed the room and went out, closing the door but for a crack behind her.

The rapping came again, heavier this time but muffled as if struck by gauntleted knuckles. Pol got up, went to the door, slid the bolt and turned the key. Cadrigan, in driving coat and Homburg hat, stood on the threshold.

"Good evening, Mr. Cadrigan," said Pol. "Pray come in and close the door behind you. It is a gusty night."

He went back into the living room, and seated himself this time in the professor's big chair of which the upholstery was still warm from contact of Veronica's body.

PROTECT CHILDREN ON RAILWAY JOURNEYS

If Infants Must Travel, Parents Should Make Sure That the Food and Water Taken Are as Safe as Home Supplies.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator From New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

For various reasons my duties compel me to spend a lot of time on railroad trains. During the year these journeys take me to many sections of the country. Since I am a doctor, those things which have to do with health attract my attention.

It is really surprising how many infants and young children are met on railway trains. Of course there are conditions which make travel imperative, but I wish it were not necessary to take the babies on long journeys. For a baby, certainly there is no place like home.

In the nature of things railroad cars are dirty. This is no reflection on the splendid management of our great railway system. It just can't be prevented. The dust created by the speed of the train and the mess left by certain passengers are sure to contaminate a car, no matter how clean it was on leaving the starting point.

Railroads are common carriers. They cannot refuse passage to anybody who buys a ticket. This means that dirty persons, vermin infected perhaps, are included in the passenger list. Nobody knows how many diphtheria carriers, typhoid fever carriers, and other individuals capable of spreading disease, may be aboard a given train.

Through years of exposure we grow hard and resistant to disease. Adults are not so susceptible to infection and the "taking" of disease as little children are. We can ride on trains and be pretty safe. But youngsters are far better off at home.

Change of water, doubtful sandwiches, more doubtful milk—these are added dangers. All in all there are many risks in travel for little folks.

Railroad cars are fickle institutions. Part of the time you are half frozen. Just as you warm up to a comfortable degree, something happens to the heating apparatus and it throws out waves of hot air. In a short time the car is stifling and you pant for breath.

Sleeping cars are far from perfect. It is only rarely that heat and ventilation suit your needs. The inventor who finds a way to make a lower berth a breathable place will be one of mankind's benefactors.

If adults suffer from these afflictions, is it any wonder the poor children are cross and petulant? Is it any wonder they weep and wail? I would think there was something wrong with a baby who didn't fuss under such circumstances.

If you must take the baby with you, be sure to take food and drink from your own home. Thermos bottles will provide good milk, pure cold water. Your own sandwiches you know are safe and good.

With a wet towel cleanse the little hands and face at regular intervals. Give the child three or four times your usual attention. This will keep him comfortable as possible and take away some of the dangers of the journey.

I know how careful the employees are taught to be about icing and care of the water tank. But your child should drink from his own cup and if possible from his thermos bottle.

The breast-fed baby is safe, of course, but for the bottle-fed or older child, there are dangers in the food and drink of strange places. It pays to be exceedingly careful, even fussy during the hours of a railway trip.

FARM GLIMPSES

By BILLY TILSON

George D. Ormes and family of Pasadena, Cal., are visiting relatives and friends in and around Clearmont. They formerly lived in that vicinity but left Nodaway County twenty-one years ago, locating where they now reside. Mr. Ormes has large dairy interests there and has been very successful in the enterprise. He says there has been great changes in this country since leaving here.

The hum of the threshing machine was heard the latter part of last week in the vicinity of Clearmont. Carl Griffey threshed a field of wheat on the Hazelton farm south of Clearmont that yielded better than thirty-five bushels per acre. It is also reported that Bert Bear's field of wheat, west of that town averaged 40 bushels per acre. The machine was threshing the field of Ad Nance just west of Bert Bear's field Saturday but we didn't learn what it was yielding. We saw this field some time ago and it looked as good as there was in that community. The threshing in that community is being done by Humphrey and Noah and they understand their business.

James Millbanks, northwest of Clearmont, says he never saw such fields of corn that are growing on the river bottom northwest of that city. He says it is so black and shiny that you have to wear colored glasses to keep it from hurting your eyes. We have seen thise fields of corn and they are wonderful.

Dowden Brothers, northeast of Maryville, will start their threshing machine today. They only expect to make about an eight day run as they only thresh in their immediate neighborhood.

Frank Shamberger, and sons, Sam Lyle and Mark DeBord of Graham vicinity were in the city Saturday night. They all feel jubilant over the crop outlook.

R. F. Wells, Dale Simmons, and Joe Woodburn, south of Orrsburg, finished cutting their oats last Friday. They all had quite an acreage and they are a good quality but not a very heavy yield.

Leslie Griffey, northeast of Orrsburg, was finishing his field of oats last Friday and they will make a fair yield. He has forty acres of wheat that will make a fair yield and it is of a good grade. He has forty acres of fine growing corn and a large bunch of spring pigs to consume it this fall. Leslie says if conditions still continue this will be a good year for him, and while he has been very busy, looking after his stock and crops, Mrs. Griffey hasn't been idle. She has 1500 spring chickens of the White leghorn strain that takes up quite a little time after looking after her household work but as she looked over that fine flock she said that there was plenty of satisfaction for the labor.

Otto Risser, who lives on the John O'Day farm southwest of Parnell, has a fine prospect for corn. Otto has as fine a bunch of spring shoats as we have seen for some time and he thinks the market will stay for some time where there will be a good profit in feeding.

John Hovenkotter and John Spires were putting up their timothy and clover hay last week. The yield is not very heavy.

Bolten Neff and family were Maryville visitors Saturday. Mr. Neff lives east of Clearmont and his land lays on the Nodaway river bottom. He says he never had as good a prospect for corn and if weather conditions are favorable from now on he expects around 80 to 100 bushels per acre.

Careful Drivers

The following letter gives an intimate picture of the working out of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) campaign for greater safety, and a point of view not often considered.

Manager, Standard Oil Co.,
Wichita, Kansas.
Dear Sir:
I have been fighting the railroad battle for 30 years—as fireman and engineer. Am now an engineer on the Santa Fe, running between Newton and Arkansas City. I take this means of letting the management of the Standard Oil Company know how much I appreciate the consideration your truck drivers give a man running an engine. It is such a relief to see your men stop a safe distance from the tracks and give us a high-ball, which seemingly is a small thing to do yet means so much to us.
I thank you.
Yours truly,
H. G. Carson.

This letter presents a peculiarly interesting point of view on the question of traffic safety—that of the train man who is often forced to play an unwilling part in tragic motoring accidents.

The man who drives an engine over a prescribed pathway, according to prescribed schedule, must often share in the disaster caused by carelessness of a motorist who drives according to his own time and pleasure.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been unusually successful in preventing such carelessness among its drivers, by its extensive and intensive safety campaign.

All Standard Oil Company (Indiana) drivers are taught to recognize the ever-present dangers of motor traffic. They are taught to respect the rights of others.

A Standard Oil Company (Indiana) driver does not "take a chance" at a railroad crossing. He knows that the oncoming train has right of way. He knows that it is his duty to respect that right and to consider the other fellow. What this consideration means to the engineer of the train is shown in the above letter of appreciation.

Extra caution at railroad crossings is a part of the program of extra carefulness that all Standard Oil Company (Indiana) drivers rigidly follow.

They do more than obey traffic regulations to the letter, because they share the purpose for which the regulations were made—to prevent the deaths of innocent people—and they share the spirit of human sympathy and consideration which prompted their making.

This spirit is to be expected of the loyal men of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) organization. They have learned to consider the rights, convenience, and safety of the other fellow first, as a working business principle, every day of the year.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) was created to serve the people of the Middle West. Its safety campaign is but an extension of this service which is resulting in a larger realization of its high purpose.

Total Wheat Crop Is More; U. S. Is Ahead

Production in Canada Is Believed to Be Less, According to U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Washington, July 19.—The prospective wheat crop in twelve countries in the northern hemisphere is $1,897,000,000 bushels compared with 1,880,000,000 last year, the department of agriculture announced today on the basis of revised forecasts.

The United States led in the northern hemisphere in total increase. European and Canadian crops decreased.

The twelve countries include United States, Canada, Spain, Hungary, Bulgaria, Rumania, Morocco, Algeria, Tunis, India, Netherlands and Korea. They produced 63.5 per cent of the total crop in the Northern Hemisphere last year and 56.4 per cent of the total world crop.

The Canadian crop is forecast at 348,626,000 bushels compared with 411,376,000 last year.

Third Administrator Named for Estate

Frank O. Litsch of Hopkins was appointed in Probate Court today as administrator with will annexed, de bonis non, of the estate of Stephen J. Warren, also of Hopkins, who died in 1912. Soon after Mr. Warren's death, his son, Sidney J. Warren, was named executor of his will, but he moved away and C. E. Donlin was named administrator. Mr. Donlin's recent death made necessary the appointment of a third administrator.

Contract in Andrew County to Randall

W. W. Randall of Maryville has been awarded a contract by the county court of Andrew county for construction of a steel bridge, 12,000 cubic yards of excavation and 400 cubic yards of rock, all part of improvement of the road from Amazonia south along the Burlington railroad tracks to join with the waterworks pumping station road at the Buchanan county line.

A total of $15,000 was necessary for the improvement of this road from the county line to Amazonia, and the Andrew County court promised that if persons along the road would raise $6,000, it would furnish the balance.

The county court of Buchanan County has promised to improve the road in this county from the pumping station north along the river to the county line as soon as the northern county completes its work.

The Franc Continues on Its Decline Today

New York, July 19.—The French franc continued on its decline today. The first quotation was 2.17 cents to the franc, an additional loss of 25½ points since the close of the market Saturday. The Belgian point dropped eleven points to 2.31. Selling of the French and Belgian francs originated in the European markets and reflects the chaotic political situation in France.

Oil Drillers Nearly Ready to Go Deeper

Bottom of Original Hole Expected to Be Reached This Afternoon— To Clean Boiler Tomorrow.

When shifts changed at noon today at the Quitman oil well, only five feet of the original six-inch hole remained to be reamed to permit lowering of the eight-inch casing. G. H. Rose, drilling contractor, expected this task to be finished this afternoon and the casing lowered to the bottom of the hole.

The men will not work tonight and will devote tomorrow to washing out the boiler of the engine and otherwise preparing for a resumption of straight drilling through the layer of limestone believed to be on top of a possible oil sand. The drilling probably will begin Wednesday morning.

Speeders on Main Street Are Warned

Five Are Hailed Before Mayor and Others Are Stopped and Given Reprimand.

A campaign of warning against speeding on North and South Main streets was conducted Sunday afternoon by Chief of Police B. F. Dougan and Officer Leo Atherton.

A number of motorists were stopped and then allowed to proceed after the warning. Five were ordered to appear before Mayor W. O. Garrett this afternoon. After receiving a lecture from the mayor and promising to offend no more, they also were allowed to go without prosecution.

"I believe that most of our motorists need only to be reminded," the mayor said. "It is easy to get beyond a safe speed limit and a good many do it unthinkingly.

"Of course if the persons who were stopped yesterday have to be stopped again, that's a different matter," the mayor added.

Mrs. Maurice Madden left Sunday for a month's visit with her daughter, Mrs. Wilfred Keefe, at Elma, Ia. Mrs. Keefe was formerly Miss Teresa Madden. En route to Elma Mrs. Madden will visit another daughter, Mrs. A. J. Cassidy at Des Moines.

Mrs. O. R. Toman returned home Saturday evening from a several weeks' visit at Red Oak, Ia.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, July 19.—All grains closed well above Saturday's final prices after an active day on the Chicago Board of Trade. Corn and oats led in the advance but the real strength came from the wheat pit.

The grain closed from ¼ to 1 cent higher although greater advances had been registered during the day. The early weakness of Liverpool induced selling, but Northwestern conditions and an improvement in the tone of the cables aided buying in all pits.

Borrowed strength from wheat as well as the fear of heat damage caused corn to close 2⅝ to 2¾ cents higher in all positions. Cash prices were 1 to ½ cents higher.

Trade in oats was a little broader and advances of ½ to 1⅝ cents were registered on the theory that this grain had sufficiently shared in the recent advance of the market and that its position was basically sound.

Provisions closed lower when packers buying did not offset the early commission house selling.

Good Coal Story for Hot Weather Days Like This

Washington, July 19.—In the midst of the summer's torrid wave, President Coolidge today faced a demand to disregard the heat and mosquitos at his vacation camp long enough to consider action to safeguard the American coal consumers this coming winter.

The question of government regulation for the coal industry was hauled out of cold storage at the capital and tossed upon the porch of the White House by Senator Royal Copeland of New York.

MERCHANTS IN A 5-3 VICTORY

WESTBORO BASEBALL TEAM LOSES IN GAME THERE.

ONE PLAYER IS HURT

Jamison, Maryville Center Fielder, Makes Sensational Catch.—Errors At Shortstop Position.

The Maryville Merchants continued in their winning baseball streak yesterday by winning from Westboro, 5 to 3 at Westboro. In defeating the Westboro team, one of the really good teams of that section, the locals displayed some brilliant fielding and some excellent base running. The Maryville team made nine hits and one error and the Westboro nine hit six times and made two errors.

All three of the errors were made in the shortstop territory. There was a rise in the ground at this point and fielding was difficult.

Maryville scored by the sacrifice route, bunting when bunts would net runs. The locals scored in the first, third, fourth and ninth. Westboro scored three runs in the fifth, when the bases were loaded with none down.

A sensational catch in deep center by Jamison, Maryville center fielder. He ran far back and took a long fly by jumping into the air.

G. W. Knuckels, Westboro second baseman, was injured when he dove in an attempt to stop a grounder. He got the ball but his shoulder was dislocated in the fall he sustained. He resumed play, however.

Buhler was the pitching ace of the game. Working well at all times and proving almost invincible in the pinches.

Iba, Maryville first baseman, hit a three-bagger for the longest hit of the game.

Works 9 Years on Ship and Then Launches It

New Haven, July 19.—After nine years of work, Fred Arenholz of Naugatuck has completed and launched a 42 foot cruiser yawl, built in his back yard. The vessel was floated today, after having been brought here on a truck. Yawl rigged, the ship is also equipped with two oil burning engines and storage tanks giving it a 1,500 mile cruising.

He says that he began cutting the timber of the ship 25 years ago, storing it and milling it himself. Arenholz now declares that he will make a "round the world cruise" in his craft, but has not announced any date of departure.

Secretary Davis Will Review Son in Camp

Cabinet Official At Plattsburg, N. Y., Citizens Military Training Camp—Son Enlists Unknown.

Washington, July 19.—Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis is here today to review Dwight F. Davis, Jr., citizens military Training camp, Plattsburg, New York.

To spare the boy publicity or special favors from some army officers, the secretary slipped his son into the C. M. T. C., without the knowledge of the officers.

But now young Dwight is in for the spotlight. His father reviews the troops today at Plattsburg in connection with the 26th infantry's observance of the anniversary of the battle of Soissons.

Dwight, Sr., is prouder of his war record as a colonel than of being secretary of war, and his closely guarded wish now is that before the summer is over there will be a Corp. Dwight F. Davis.
